Jara Everett: Born in Belzoni, Mississippi and growing up in Chicago, Jara Everett was destined for greatness! At the tender age of eight, Jara began writing, acting and studying singing. In 1994, she joined a female singing group from Chicago on Columbia Records Label called "S.T.O.P." for one year. In 1995, she entered the Miss Illinois Pageant where she was crowned the Reining, Chicago's Most Beautiful Girl. Jara continued to define and study her talent as a dancer, singer, rapper, actress which in turn, landed her being casted in Shelley Garrett Productions' "Beauty Shop 2", a 23 state tour across the United States.

Through this production, JaRa was able to utilize her talents as a dancer and an actress. While touring, Jara Everett decided she wanted to pursue acting in film and as a result was able to be casted in various acting roles including "Ladies of Englewood", an independent film produced by Kim King and David Lee as well as other independent films. In 2005, Jara found herself in the rap game after meeting Shawty Redd and 404 Soldiers. As a result, Jara rapped on various albums including being featured with 404 Soldiers "We Some Riderz" 2005; "White Tee's Female Remake" 2006; "Trick Trick" feat. Nate the Great 2006; "Get Off Me" feat. Shawty Redd 2006; "Then" feat. Young Jeezy "Burning Up" 2006. In addition, Jara sang background for the trio group Trillville "Do it Then" 2007. TODAY..Jara Everett continues to rise, shine, empower and pursue her goals through her own production and brand Jara Everett.
